Syntax was composed over several months, involving many hands, many cities and in production for over a year. The process of providing a luxury product involved many specialists in graphic design, product design, printing and textile.

The aim for Syntax was to extend the language from the show Syntax which opened at OUTPOST in the month of April 2013. The exhibition consisted of 19 individual unique works, all painted with fabric dye on canvas using a limited colour pallet of red, yellow and blue.

Syntax, box, tissue and handkerchief is all one word. Syntax can dry your tears, be worn in your breast pocket or stored discreetly away from view.

Syntax, the language for life.
